

In regards to RM-10867, I would like to see this become part of the new rules for amature radio. I have studied long and hard to pass the morse code requirements but have still not been able to accomplish the required 5wpm necessary. I will get it some day, but in the mean time I am missing out on all the great and wonderful enjoyment of operating on the longer distance phone communications because of my current inability to pass an antiquaited form of communications.

Thank You
